T 12. People moved from Massachusetts to the Connecticut River Valley because farming was easier in the fertile river valley than in rocky Massachusetts.

True because it was crowded in Massachusetts and there was better farm land in Connecticut.

F 13. The Indians and settlers had different views of land. Indians believed in clearing and owning land.

False because Indians believed in harmony of the land and you should harm nature.

T 14. Colonists often chose to settle near the coast or major rivers so they could travel and transport goods by water.

True because people learned that they could stay in one place and grow enough food to feed their community, if they were near a water supply.

F 15. Indians who survived the fate of the English victory over the Wampanoag were free to live their lives how they saw fit.

False because they were captured and worked for other people.

Extended Response - 5 points. Begin with a topic sentence. Use complete sentences and include reasons and evidence from the text, notes and classroom discussions.

16. How did the arrival of the Spaniards change the Indians' lives?

The Spaniards changed the Indians' lives by forcing them to grow crops for them, pay them taxes, clean their homes, and do their heavy work. The Indians had to get rid of their traditions and throw away their old kind dolls.
